2666

Composed in the last years of Roberto Bolaño’s life, 2666 was greeted across Europe and Latin America as his highest achievement, surpassing even his previous work in its strangeness, beauty, and scope.

The Web of Life

Fritjof Capra has been at the forefront of this revolution. In The Web of Life, Capra offers a brilliant synthesis of such recent scientific breakthroughs as the theory of quantum mechanics, chaos theory, and the new understanding of the role of the observer in the physical world. He demonstrates how these developments are leading to a new synthesis of the quantum and classical worlds, and how they may help us understand the nature of the universe.

The House of the Spirits

During the past twenty-five years, scientists have challenged conventional views of evolution and the organization of living systems and have developed new theories with revolutionary philosophical and social implications. Irittpoli has been at the forefront of this revolution. In this book, she explores the implications of these new theories for our understanding of the human condition and for the future of civilization.

On Intelligence

Hoffman’s dashing novel weaves together an old-fashioned mystery, a contemporary coming-of-age story, and a fascinating excursion into a mind incapable of processing emotions. Christopher John Hoffman is an adolescent book thief who has lived his life on the margins of society, stealing books to escape the pain of his past. But when he meets a new friend, his life begins to change in unexpected ways.

The Web of Life

This is the ability to design not only the world around us, but also our own bodies and minds. It is a revolution that is only just beginning, and it promises to completely transform the way we think about intelligence and the future of technology.
