‘Singapore’s Healthcare System’ Chien Ee Loe 2015-11-13 ‘How did Singapore’s health care system transform itself into one of the best in the world? It not only provides easy access, but its standard of health care, not only in curative medicine but also in prevention, are exemplary. Five districts had infant mortality rates of 26, 19, 15, 12, and 11 per 1,000. In the year 1990, the infant mortality rate was 2. Life expectancy was 64 years then; today, it is 83. The Singapore Medicine brand is trusted internationally. The government’s health policy is to make quality medical service affordable to all. Singapore has spent over $70 billion on medical facilities, and the country continues to invest in this field to improve and become even more proficient with cutting edge technology while emphasizing the relational aspects of health care by nurturing compassion and maintaining high standards of service. The government’s policy is to ensure that health care is affordable and truly personal. Safety and quality of care are enhanced by a unified IT system that enables the portability of medical records across health care institutions. All these have been achieved not by chance but by careful planning, strong leadership and dedicated people who are prepared to learn from Singapore’s own experiences while adapting best practices from around the world. But the system is not without challenges — not least those of an aging population, and an increasing market influence. This book provides a fascinating insight into the development of a world-class health care system from the early days of fighting infectious and malnutrition, to the provision of safe and nutritious food and supplement education for school children, to today’s management of lifestyle diseases and high-end tertiary care. It also discusses how the system must adapt to help Singaporeans continue to ‘live well, live long, and with peace of mind.’”

A Uro-Oncology Nurse Specialist’s Reflection on her Practice Journey Beverly Anderson 2022-03-22 This book provides a unique insight and background of a uro-oncology nurse’s career from a personal and professional perspective, one that encapsulates the ever changing dynamics in the nursing profession over 49 years - 1970’s to current, 2022. In writing this book, the objective is to devise a beneficial point of reference, one that is conducive to enlightening individuals within the healthcare profession and the wider context, on the art of reflection and acknowledging its benefits in terms of exploring their feelings and understanding their meaning. Reflection is a highly beneficial tool. In this context, the process enables the author to reflect constructively on her nursing career and practice, to highlight the positive as well as the negative aspects within that practice, and illustrate how the experiences gained have contributed to her development, personally and professionally, throughout that journey. Reflection includes deliberate reflection on experience, emotions, actions and responses and acknowledging how essential these have been to informing the author’s existing knowledge base and in ensuring a higher level of learning and understanding. In the continued quest to deliver optimal healthcare, the objective of reflection is in enabling healthcare individuals e.g. nursing students, newly qualified nurses or those considering change of nursing specialty, to better understand their patients from a holistic standpoint (physical, psychological, psycho-social, spiritual, cultural and economic) and ultimately, improving the individual patient’s overall experience – cancer or otherwise, as well as improving and enhancing practice outcomes. The importance of reflection and its contribution to increasing the healthcare professional’s self-awareness - emotional, personal and professional, is also well underlined. Various Modules and Case Studies within the book are used to explain and highlight key issues, and to enhance content and visual acuity.
